Soybeans

There aren't many companies in the region who have been growing and supplying non-GMO soybeans for as long as we have. SB&B has been doing it for generations, reliably delivering multiple varieties and quantities to our customers.

SB&B continues to work as a pioneer in the soybean industry. We work hard with area universities and private companies to test varieties and incorporate the latest methods and technologies. Through it all, we provide the highest quality with a steadfast commitment to food safety.

Red River Valley Innovators

From the beginning, SB&B has helped advance the soybean's viability and marketability while perfecting growing techniques.

- Among the first to embrace and perfect the solid seeding technique
- Grown in the northern U.S., where conditions are ideal for soybeans
- Minimal disease, weed and insect pressure
- Mild summers, long days and cool nights promote lush growth activity
- Research universities and private partners are minutes away

Attention to Detail

SB&B is proud of its reputation for getting things right. How do we do it? It's pretty simple. We ask what you want, and tailor production accordingly. It's a little more work, but the results speak for themselves.

- We track performance of multiple varieties to acquire traits you need
 - Composition
 - Seed size and hilum color
 - Non-GMO and organic
- Planted, cultivated and harvested to create a clean, environmentally safe crop
- Crop is monitored to prevent weeds, disease and insects
- Efficient, customized processing is state-of-the-art
- Packaged in a range of sizes to meet your specific needs

Continued Quality and Improvement

From our initial meeting in the spring, to variety selection, to production and processing, everything we do is designed to provide reliable quality and consistent improvement from year to year.

- Beans are continuously tested for key characteristics
 - Nutritional value
 - Color
 - Size
 - Production value
 - Flavor
- Consistent high quality for food making
- Cleaned, sorted in a state-of-the-art processing plant
- Controlled research and development from start to finish ensures improvement year to year
